GREGGORY, Courtney 6 March 1891

Designation	Accident Location	Accident Due to
Guard	Rockingham-Jarrahdale Railway	Shunting operations

Courtney Greggory, a guard on the Jarrahdale-Rockingham Railway line, was 23 years of age when he died as the result of an accident while shunting trucks loaded with timber at a new mill. He fell off the timber on to the rails and was crushed. He died at the scene. An inquest was held at Jarrahdale. Courtney was not married.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.
A GUARD CRUSHED TO DEATH

This morning a telegram was received in Fremantle announcing a shocking fatality at Jarrahdale. From the scanty particulars to hand it appears that yesterday a man named Courtney Greggory, a guard on the Jarrahdale-Rockingham Railway line, shunting trucks loaded with timber at the new mill, fell off the timber on to the rails and was crushed beneath the wheels.

He died instantaneously. An inquest will be held at Jarrahdale today. The deceased was an unmarried man.

Source: Trove/The Daily News (Perth) Saturday 7 March 1891 Page 3.