NELSON, James 14 July 1913

Designation	Accident Location	Accident Due to
Guard	Yarloop, Millar's T & T	Shunting operations

James Nelson was 53 years of age when he was fatally injured while shunting at Yarloop. James died during an emergency operation later that day.

SHOCKING RAILWAY ACCIDENT.
A GUARD KILLED.
Yarloop, July 14.
A fatal accident occurred at Yarloop this afternoon, the victim being James Nelson, a guard employed by Millars' Karri and Jarrah Co., at Yarloop. It appears that Nelson, who had charge of a timber train which left Yarloop early this morning, had returned from Nanga Brook and Hoffman with a full rake of timber, and was in the act of dropping his loaded trucks into the Government railway yard when, by some means, he fell beneath the moving trucks. When extricated it was found that one foot had been completely severed, and the other crushed so severely as to necessitate amputation. Nelson was taken to the Yarloop Hospital, where Dr. Moore was quickly in attendance. Dr. Joel, of Bunbury, was summoned. Nelson succumbed under the operation.

Source: Trove/The West Australian (Perth) Tuesday 15 July 1913 Page 7.