FALL UNDER TRAIN.
Man Killed at Timber Mill.
When he fell in the path of a rake of trucks at Whittaker's Mill, near North Dandalup, on Saturday morning, Arthur William Terence Reynolds (26), received multiple injuries, as the result of which he died in the Murray District Hospital at Pinjarra several hours later. It was reported to the police at Pinjarra that on Saturday Reynolds took charge of a rake of trucks, used to carry timber at the mill, in place of another man who had been obliged to leave his work for the day. While working on the train, Reynolds attempted to step on to one of the trucks but did not gain a firm footing. He fell in the path of the truck, part of which struck him in the back, inflicting serious injuries. He was taken by car to the Murray District Hospital, where he died on Saturday afternoon.
